DREAM BEARS BROKE LITTLE GIRL'S NECK. Olga Bennett, ten years old, of Camden, N. J., dreamed that she was being attacked by bears, and that in the fight they broke her neck.

When her parents found her helpless in bed a little later, sure enough her heck was broken.

Doctors explain that she probably wrenched her neck out of joint while squirming about to escape the dreambens.

Olga's condition is serious, but the physicians think they can save her life.

"Et. Louis people almost desert the ple ocunters in summer," he said, "to eat watermelons.
"Now, what we mean to do is regulate the pie industry so it will fit in with the melon business."

CRITICISM OF HER MUSIC WAS FATAL.

When her sister told Angela Nepper she could not play "Nearer, My God, to Thee," on the plane as well as it might be played, she killed herself at Council Bluffs, Iowa, last evening.

Angela loaded both barrels of a shot-gun and piaced the muzzle against her breast.

She took off her shoe and pulled the triggers with her toes.
